The Facts as to Chilhowie.

To the Editor of the Dispatch:

Inasmuch as so many extravagant rumors are afloat in regard to small-pox in this place, I thought I would state as yet we have had but one case, and that is two miles from Chilhowie. We have about forty under quarantine, and have had some two weeks ago. If no new cases occur they will be discharged this week. The negro who has the disease was exposed to it at Salisbury, and kept in fact concealed until he was taken down. Two physicians have seen him.

Dr. G. W. Hubble and Dr. Hatten. The latter is the physician who attends the cases at Clark's Summit, and is quite familiar with this disease. There is no question as to the disease, and as the patient has been attended by father, mother, and two brothers the end is not yet. Vigorous quarantine measures will be kept up over this family. Most of those under quarantine visited the sick man in the early stage of the disease, and we may have no cases outside of this negro's family.

The excitement is subsiding and all business is going on as usual. The public schools have suffered much from the excitement.

Our supervisors furnished virus and nearly every one has been or will be vaccinated. Fifteen cases are reported at Salisbury, seven miles from this place.

Hastily, yours, A. F. ST. JOHN, Chilhowie, Va., December 11, 1893.

ESCAPED FROM THEIR LIVES.

Mr. Ramey's Family Leave Their Burning Home With Scanty Clothing.

PETERSBURG, VA., December 12.—(Special.)—The residence of Mr. R. R. Ramey, in Prince George county, about nine miles from this city, was destroyed by fire last night, and the family narrowly escaped with their lives. Mr. Ramey was the representative in the last House of Delegates from the counties of Prince George and Surry, and is a gentleman of the old Virginia type. His daughter had been ironing some clothing on the lower floor when the fire broke out. The family, on being aroused, fled to the kitchen, and when aroused, were surprised to find the building in flames. They were enabled to escape with only scanty clothing, and they saved were two beds, which were thrown through the windows. All of the furniture, clothing, and personal effects of the family were burned with the building. In addition to the loss of the home, Mr. Ramey lost a fine gold watch and chain. He lost his hat also, and had to come to town to-day to purchase a covering for his head. It is supposed that the fire left in the room where the daughter had been ironing, was communicated to the floor, and that the heat from beneath caused the explosion of the lamp above, which was the only thing that saved the family. Mr. Ramey had an insurance of $500 on his house, which does not half cover his loss, not including his furniture.

IMPROVING.

The mother will be supported by a daughter, who has employment in a penitentiary.

The cases of the members of Sherwood's negro band, charged with causing the riot on Sycamore street on Sunday afternoon, during which several white men were injured, were called on to-day. The case of the mother, but at the request of the accused, were continued until next Friday for examination.

EVENTFUL CAREER.

CAPTAIN HARRY ROBERTS, OF NORFOLK, CROSSES OVER THE RIVER.

As Soldier and Sailor He Served the Confederacy—Verdict Against the Atlantic and Danville Railroad.

NORFOLK, VA., December 12.—(Special.)—Captain Harry Roberts, one of our oldest and best-known citizens, died to-day at his home, on Holt street. Born in Poland in 1831, he at an early age became a seafaring man, and was mate of a vessel, which was seized on the coast of Africa as a slave and brought to this port some years before the war. He settled here and married. When the war broke out he enlisted as lieutenant in a battery of artillery in Captain Young's company. During the earlier part of the war his company was stationed at Boush's Bluff, but at the evacuation of Norfolk the company was stationed for some time at Chaffin's Bluff.

INTO THE NAVY.

While here he resigned his position; went to Wilmington, N. C., and exchanged into the navy, taking rank as lieutenant. He served on a number of Confederate ships, lastly with Admiral Semmes. He was captured, and in prison for nine months. At the close of the war he returned to Norfolk, and became identified with the Dismal Swamp Canal Company, becoming its superintendent. When the company changed hands he took the same position under the Albemarle and Chesapeake Canal Company, which he held at the time of his death.

IMPORTANT DECISION.

The jury in the United States Court to-day rendered a verdict in the suits for damages against the Atlantic and Danville railroad in favor of the plaintiffs for an aggregate of $25,000. The suit grew out of an accident on that railroad in July, 1892, in Mecklenburg county, in which two persons were killed and two of the plaintiffs to the present suit injured.

The verdict gives damages as follows: To R. E. Cogbill, administrator of Nelson Parker, $9,000. To same, administrator of S. Walters, $3,000. To John B. Pitkin, for injuries, $5,000. To John B. Pitkin, for injury, $2,500.

IN DISTRESS.

The schooner George E. Vernon, from Philadelphia to Valasco, Tex., with coal, arrived here to-day in distress, having been badly damaged in a gale south of Hatteras last week.

WHAT A FARMER SAYS.

Five Good Reasons Given by a Dispatch Reader for the Faith That Is in Him.

We have received the following unsolicited from a reader of the Dispatch:

Five reasons why every farmer ought to take the Weekly Dispatch:

1. It is sound Democratic, such as every true Virginian ought to like to read.

2. It comes twice a week, often enough for any farmer to go to the post-office.

3. It gives as much local news and more reading matter for the money than any paper in the State.

4. If it went to every farm-house there would be a better-educated and more intelligent country population.

5. Last, but not least, it is a business paper. It does not force people to take what they do not want. When your subscription expires your paper stops.
